Title: Director - School of Allied Health Sciences Date Printed: 04/26/2018

Job Posted On: 01/29/2018

Posting Expiration Date: 05/01/2018

Work Location: Boise, Idaho,

Description

Boise State University seeks a visionary and highly motivated leader. You will promote and champion the School of Allied Health Sciences through a commitment to academic excellence, innovative research and community engagement. As the director, you will lead four diverse but connected departments and a newly approved Master of Science in Genetic Counseling.

The Director of the School of Allied Health Sciences will shape the ongoing growth of a school that is still in its formative stage. We welcome innovation, vision, and an entrepreneurial approach.

You will have the opportunity to:

- Foster an environment of growth, leadership development, scholarship and collaboration among faculty and academic leadership.
- Utilize analytics and benchmarking to set goals that ensure sustainable student enrollment, enhanced retention and graduation rates.
- Engage in initiatives to maximize systems and processes to enhance and optimize productivity of staff and support the day-to-day operations of the School.
- Identify and create partnerships across the college and between other colleges and departments on the Boise State campus.
- Partner and build relationships with donors, employers and community partners.
- Develop policies and lead innovating approaches that maximize incentive-based budgeting systems, that engender trust and equity through financial problem solving, and showcase financial stewardship.
- Direct and provide accountability for the assessment and maintenance of accreditation standards.

- Promote the School through effective and transparent marketing and messaging to both internal and external communities.
 - Cultivate a culture of open communication that drives collaboration and success.
 - Facilitate positive interactions, build consensus and encourage a spirit of cooperation among diverse populations. Collaborate with the College of Health Sciences leadership team, including the Dean, the Director of the School of Nursing and the Director of the School of Social Work to develop strategies, policies, and procedures that enhance the reputation and growth of the College.

The College of Health Sciences (COHS) is a leader in educating professionals who advance life-long health. The College boasts a supportive Office of Research, a dedicated advancement team, and a centralized Office of Student Services and Academic Advising. The director we seek will embrace and model the core values of the College of Health Sciences.

- A passion for knowledge and health marked by innovation, creativity and academic excellence.
- A record of compassion and care for student, staff and faculty development.
- A respect for all people demonstrated through excellent communication skills, an inclusive approach and a commitment to transparency.
- A collaborative, inter-professional approach to teaching and research.
- A reputation for integrity as evidenced through professionalism, honesty and excellence.

Required Skills

Requirements Include:

- Attained rank of Associate or Full Professor.
- A doctorate degree.
- Retrenchment rights within Kinesiology, Radiologic Sciences, Respiratory Care, or Community and Environmental Health.
- Minimum of three years proven experience in an academic administrative position, i.e., department chair, school director, or associate dean.
- Proven excellence in teaching, research and service.
- Demonstrated commitment and expertise to strategic efforts focused on diversity and inclusion within an institution of higher education.
