

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS
— AT AUSTIN —

Title: Chief Development Officer, College of Natural Sciences

Date Printed: 04/26/2018

Job Posted On: 04/04/2018

Posting Expiration Date: 05/04/2018

Work Location: Austin, Texas,

Description

The University of Texas at Austin (UT Austin) is internationally recognized as a bold, ambitious leader in research and higher education. A member of the prestigious Association for American Universities (AAU), UT Austin is one of the nation's premier centers for academic excellence and has more than 40 programs ranked among the top 10 in the country. The flagship campus of The University of Texas System (UT System), it is the fifth-largest university in the United States, with approximately 40,000 undergraduate students and over 11,000 graduate and professional students from across the nation and more than 118 countries.

Chief Development Officer, College of Natural Sciences

The University of Texas at Austin

Austin, TX

<http://www.utexas.edu>

<https://www.utexas.edu/academics/college-of-natural-sciences>

With a community of more than 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students, and 347 faculty members, the College of Natural Sciences (CNS) is the largest college at UT Austin as well as one of the largest colleges of science in the United States. It is committed to providing students with a world-class, research-based science education and to discovering new knowledge through research that transforms our view of ourselves and our place in the cosmos. Composed of 12 independent departments (astronomy, chemistry, computer science, human development and family science, integrative biology, marine science, mathematics, molecular biosciences, neuroscience, nutritional sciences, physics, statistics and data sciences), and the School of Human Ecology, CNS creates an environment that fosters the economic and technological development of Texas, the U.S. and the world. U.S. News & World Report has ranked 12 of the College's programs among the top 10 in the country.

Reporting to the dean, who will be appointed in the spring of 2018, the Chief Development Officer of the College of Natural Sciences will play an essential leadership role in advancing overall College fundraising and, in doing so, position CNS to contribute significantly to a forthcoming and highly historic campaign for UT Austin, anticipated to be one of the largest, most ambitious campaigns in public higher education. The successful candidate will be an outstanding player/coach overseeing a staff of 15-20 and managing a portfolio of 25-50 top donors and donor prospects.

Required Skills

The Chief Development Officer will develop a comprehensive fundraising plan that optimizes the best of the College's resources, which include an outstanding faculty, committed alumni and a University development program that is well-resourced and on the rise by every measure. The ideal candidate will be an entrepreneurial self-starter interested in elevating the College's fundraising program and partnering with the new dean to secure resources for the College's first-rate departments, centers, programs and research.

Kind: Full Time

Level: Staff Position

Apply

To apply or to refer candidates, please contact Jill Lasman, Senior Vice President or Gretchen Dwyer, Senior Consultant at LOIS L. LINDAUER SEARCHES, at <http://bit.ly/UTAUSTINCNS>

PI101833831

Go to Diversity.com

Diversity.com is the most trusted and affordable resource for any organization in search of diverse professionals, managers and executives. Founded in September 2000, Diversity.com is a privately held, 100% African American family owned small business with headquarters in Atlanta, GA. We market our recruitment services nationwide to all types of industries, organizations and communities with particular emphasis on attracting talented science, technology, education and medical savvy men and women.