Description

Welcome. Whether you are a reader in search of enduring fiction, nonfiction, and poetry, a student or instructor seeking outstanding course books and digital materials, an enthusiast eager for food and lifestyle inspiration, or a professional looking for authoritative new works, you have come to the right place. Independent since 1923, employee-owned, and proud to publish “books that live,” Norton is here for you.

Founded in 1923, W.W. Norton is the oldest and largest publishing house owned wholly by its employees. The company strives to carry out the imperative of its founder, to “publish books not for a single season, but for the years” in fiction. With an annual list of about 400 titles, W.W. Norton is a global company, its familiar seagull logo appearing on books throughout the world. Norton is international in scope but there is much about the company that would remain recognisable to its founders: the editorial quality of the books, the rigorously anti-corporate style and above all the shared sense of purpose that flourishes when all employees have a stake in the success of their firm. The British branch of W.W. Norton, with offices in central London, handles sales, marketing and publicity in the United Kingdom, Europe, Africa, India and the Middle East.

Independent since 1923,
Norton publishes books that educate, inspire, and endure.
